The City of Cottleville recently hosted its third Comprehensive Plan Update Open House for residents and the general public, led by PGAV Planners.

During the open house, PGAV reviewed the results of the steering committee survey, which outlines objectives and key results for transportation, infrastructure, and mobility. They also reviewed key results for parks, recreation, natural resources, community character, potential annexation areas, and trail and pedestrian access. Additionally, key objectives for growth, development, housing, and neighborhoods were discussed.

PGAV also presented several exhibits, including a draft Future Land Use Map, a Growth and Annexation exhibit, and a Parks, Greenways, and Trail Connections exhibit. Residents, business owners, City staff, elected officials, and various board and commission members were invited to provide feedback using markers on the exhibits, comment cards, and stickers to identify priorities and preferences.

Also in attendance were several City staff members, the City Administrator Michael Padella, the City Engineer Tom Goldkamp, Mayor Stephen Thompson, Planning and Zoning Commission members Maria Conte and Terry Hogan were also present, along with Marilyn Drafall representing the Old Town Historic Commission.

Respectfully submitted,
